

Program Description

Everyday bills and other expenses can sure add up. Many older and disabled Wyoming residents could use a little extra financial help. Administered by the Wyoming Department of Health, the Tax Refund for Elderly & Disabled Program provides an allowance to help cover sales and use taxes, and utility and energy costs to qualified residents.

Public notice of this program is made through paid newspaper advertising, direct mail to previous applicants, outreach to senior centers and other agencies and news releases around the state.

Applications can be picked up from local senior centers from June 01, thru the last working day in August.

To receive a refund, qualified residents must submit a new application each year.
